Free Dispensary for Tuberculosis.

Following the successful operations of the Free Dispensary for Tuberculosis in Wilkes-Barre and Reading, the State Board of Health has decided to open one in Emporium for the benefit of those people of Cameron county who are unable or unwilling to go a sanitarium. Dr. H. S. Falk, of Emporium, will have charge of the dispensary, and until suitable quarters can be procured he will conduct it from his office. The class of people to be treated are those who are too poor to pay for medical advice.

Pulmonary Tuberculosis (or consumption as it is commonly called) is one of the most dreaded as well as most common diseases of the human body, and by opening free dispensaries in each county of the State, the Board of Health will try and educate the people in the proper methods to combat it.

The dispensary is now open from 1:00 to 3:00 p. m., on Tuesdays and Fridays of each month.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[From our Regular Correspondent.]

Washington, Sept. 28th, 1907.

The President's return to the capitol has operated, as usual, to give impetus to the national government and everything seems be moving more briskly under the stimulous of his energy, One of the Chief Executive, and one which exhibits his characteristic fairness, was to announce that he would formally approve of the Oklahoma convention weich will add five members to the House and two to the Senate at the coming session. Mr. Roosevelt made it very clear that he did not approve of the convention personally, that he shared the very poor opinion which Secretary Taft expressed of the instrument. In fact, he told some of his friends that were he to put his personal opinion of the constitution into words it would not be fit for publication. But he examined it in the light of the discretion conferred on him by Congress and finding no ground on which to reject it, within such circumscribed limits, he will formally approve it as soon as the certified copy and the certificates of its adoption reach him. Oklahoma has already elected her officers and members of Congress. The latter include two Democratic Senators, three Democratic Representatives and two Republican members of the lower house. The chief opponent of the admission of Oklahoma has been Speaker Cannon but the President believed that he had no right to take political considerations into account when he passed on the problem.

The President is keeping very quiet regarding his coming speeches which are said to be very interesting and straight from the shoulder, as his utterences usually are. Neither will he reveal anything regarding his coming message to Congress except that so far as he now knows it will not contain any suggestions of amendment of the anti-trust law. The Attorney General has some ideas on this subject, however, and when he has laid them before the Executive they may appeal to him so strongly as to lead to their being incorporated in the message. It is probable that the President will take advantage of the great prosperity of the country and the extraordinarily prosperous condition of the Treasury to urge a considerable addition to the navy and the enactment of the navy pay bill, which will give to the enlisted men and officers of both the army and navy, material increases of compensation, running from a 30 per cent. increase for the enlisted men of both arms of the service down to 10 per cent. for the higher ranking officers.

National Committeemen Ward and Brooker, of New York and Connecticut respectively, took luncheon with the President the day after he reached Washington and reported on political conditions in their respective states. They told the President that everything in both states looked most favorable for a great Republican victory next Autumn. Mr. Ward said that New Yorker's were delighted with Governor Hughes administration and would renominate him and reelect him governor. He also expressed the belief that the New York delegation would cast a solid vote for Secretary Taft in the national convention. Mr. Brooker told the President that he was certain Connecticut would send a Taft delegation to the convention. The President expressed the utmost gratification at this news.

It is regarded as noteworthy that never since the President announced that the battleship fleet would go to the Pacific has a cross word been heard from Japan. It is known in inner circles in Washington that the Japanese legislation of the last session has signally failed of its purpose, the exclusion of Japanese laborers from this country and it is regarded as almost certain that the United States will be obliged to seek an exclusion treaty with Japan during the coming winter. Of course battleships are not diplomats but it is the experience of every diplomat that they have much to do with making successful the work of the most accomplished diplomatist. It is a fact that during the last quarter of the fiscal year something over 10,000 Japanese secured admission to this country and while many of these came in as teachers and merchants, most of them were found doing manual labor within a very short time after their admission, while the government was obliged to expend $15,000 for railroad fares alone for the deportation of Japanese who had sneaked in over the Mexican and Canadian boundaries. It is expected, however, that Canada's decision not to admit Japanese without passports will have the effect of checking the practice of Japanese slipping into this country illegally.

Big Purchase of Land.

The Pennsylvania R. R. Co., has purchased 220 acres of land at Lock Haven and important improvements are contemptaed. It is predicted that the P. & E., may build shops at Lock Haven. to be an auxiliary to the Renovo shops. Would that the Pennsy might again try to make the needed changes at Emporium. We believe our citizens would insist upon fair treatment.

Birthday Surprise.

Thos. Moore, and wife of St. Marys, accompanied by the following ladies: Mesdames Rhone, Hatch, Pass, Chittle and Smith, arrived in Emporium Tuesday morning, bright and early, the object being to make Mrs. E. C. Davy a surprise visit upon her birthday. Mr. Davy met the party at the New Warner and drove them to the farm home on Four Mile, where the day was delightfully passed. We noticed the party were well supplied with baskets and bundles and we rather guessed they contained something good.

Mrs. Davey is one of Cameron county's most estimable ladies and always ready to aid in any good work. Had her many Emporium friends been given a "hint" no doubt Four Mile would have looked like a camp meeting.

CHARLES L. BUTLER.

The visit of Miss Mabel Butler to our sanctum before leaving for her home at Painesvile, Ohio, reminds ye editor that we failed to call the attention of the citizens of Painesville to the fact that Charles L. Butler had located in their town and tell them who and what he is, for friend Butler might live there for 50 years and they would never here from him who he was more than his name. Mr. Butler came here 24 years ago and married, at once taking an active part in public matters. His clear conception of every public question, deep thinking and constant reading of the best literature, soon caused his neighbors to place him in the town council where he remained for six years and labored zealously to the best interests of the tax-payers, when he resigned. Of pleasing address, Mr. Butler was popular throughout the county and served on the board of County Auditors for six years and refused to allow the Republican party to nominate him for Sheriff, in a Republican county, and continued to serve for ten years as a member of the Republican County Committee, always hustling to elect its candidates and keeping his pen busy in advocacy of Republican principles and its candidates—always to be depended on. The Republican state organization always relied upon his wisdom and integrity in congressional and state elections and more than once he was depended on for effective work. He never wanted an office, but was true as gold and would go his last dollar for a friend and ride day and night if necessary. Painesville will find our former citizen, who always bore the best reputation for honesty, good government and correct living, a valuable acquisition to their city. None were more highly respect than Chas. L. Butler and family and we regret that circumstances compeled them to leave us.

Moved to Bolivar, N. Y.

Michael Murphy, one of our respected citizens who has resided here for 30 years, being engaged in hotel business has located at Bolivar, N. Y., where he has leased the Newton House. He left this morning, accompansed by Geo. Narby, his clerk, to take charge of his new place. We hope the change is only temporary.

The Murder Trial.

For the second time in the history of Cameron county, we are to have a trial for murder at the court to be held here on the 14th of this month, when Orrie O'Dell, who, on July 18th, 1907 deliberately murdered his wife, May, leaving two children.

Unless there may be some legal reason for postponement the trial will be called possibly on the second day of court. District Attorney, J. P. McNarney will have charge of the case in behalf of the Commonwealth. He has passed through similar ordeals and knows well how many obstructions are in the road. The Court has assigned as counsel for O'Dell, Mr. Fred Arn Johnson, the youngest member of Cameron county bar, and we may expect his maiden effort to be an able one, for he has been devoting considerable time with the prisoner and study in the case. While it is often the practice of courts to assign young attorneys in cases of similar nature, but in this instance such is not true, the Court complimenting Mr. Johnson on his ability as a learned lawyer and the able manner he handles legal work entrusted to him.

He is a graduate of Dickinson Law School, class of 1906, and has for several years been closely applying himself. Our readers well remember that six months ago Mr. Johnson successfully passed the examination before the State Board of Law Examination for admission to the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. We feel positive our young friend will ably battle for his client, although the great weight of evidence is against him.

The Lunatic and the Lady.

"The Lunatic and the Lady" company are Mr. Frank Christie who plays "The Lunatic," Miss Jeanette Mozar plays the part of "The Lady," Adele Hinton, David Firmann, Dan Davidson, Sid J. Deschane, Blanche Leslie, Amelia Baird Christie, Grace Perry, Katherine Schuyler, and a host of others of the best comedy and musical performers that could be obtained. A special feature on which the company prides itself is the beautiful chorus christened "The Some Noise Girls" by a New York paper. "The Lunatic and the Lady" will play the Emporium Opera House next Wednesday, Oct. 9.

Found Dead.

Last Friday, Chas. Drangel, drove a supply wagon from Fred Buehler's lumber camp on Hicks Run, to this place to purchase, or rather get upon the order of said Buehler supplies (?) necessary for a sheep roost. About 1:30 p. m., he started for camp with a load of beer, whiskey and other supplies (?) and when he reached the end of the new State Road he stopped in the middle of the road and was found by Geo. L. Day, doubled up under the wagon. Thinking the man drunk, Mr. Day, assisted by Ray Haskins, picked up the man placed him in the wagon, unhitched the horses and pulled the wagon out of the road. About five thirty o'clock John A. Johnson, while driving past discovered that the man was dead. Justice of Peace, M. M. Larrabee, was notified to take charge of the remains, when he empannelled a jury composed of B. L. Spence, foreman, Wm. Brown, Edward Viner, W. S. Lingle, Geo. L. Day and Albert Murray viewed the body and adjourned until Saturday evening, when upon hearing evidence, rendered the following verdict: "That Chas. Drangel, whose body was found Sept. 17, 1907, in a wagon on the West Creek State Road, near Day Bro's tenement house, came to his death from either falling from his wagon, or from excessive use of liquor." His remains were taken to LaBar's undertaking rooms and embalmed, being held there until word is received from his parents in Sweden, who are said to be wealthy. Deceased aged about 48, came to America about twenty yeras ago and used to work at Brockwayville.

This case of embalming is said, by all who have viewed the remains to be a fine piece of work. Mr. Rishell who done the work, says he can keep the body six months.

But the term urgent reasons shall be strictly construed and shall not permit of irregular attendance.

This act shall not apply to any child between the ages of thirteen and sixteen who can read and write the English language intelligently and is regularly engaged in any useful employment or service. A certificate of age and ability to read and write the English language intelligently shall be issued by the Superintendent of Schools, Notary Public, or Justice of the Peace.

The above clipping is published by order of the Emporium School Board. The directors have no choice but to enforce its provisions.

National Protective Legion.

Many people in this vicinity are greatly exercised over report being made concerning the National Protective Legion and the action taken in last biennial convention. It is correctly stated that the cash dividend of the organization payable each five years, will be materially reduced. An authoritive statement concerning this society so well known in our place, is to the effect that cash dividend in future will be declared upon a purely mathematical basis and that the amount to be paid each year, will not be known until an actuary shall have made computations to determine it. In future the dividends will vary each and every year, and the amount paid on each full rate certificate, will be changed to such sum as is the actual increment upon the certificates issued during the year, five years previous there to.

This action was in accordance with demands made by the Insurance Department of nearly every state in the union where the Legion does business and it was largely a compulsary change. However the change seems an admirable one inasmuch as it assures the perpetuity of the society and removes all obstacles exercised by the various Insurance Departments and other officials in authority. Furthermore, it removes all criticism as freely passed by Old Line Companies. From its National Offices we gather information, that they earnestly approved the measure, and of its assurance of equity and justice to all the membership. To the public we will also state thas 925 representatives were in attendance at the meeting and voted unanimously to adopt the change that was made. From the stand point of one who carefully reviews the conditions as presented, good judgment indicates that correct action was taken.

The first local presentation of "The Lunatic and the Lady" will be at the Emporium Opera House ou Wednesday, Oct. 9. It is said to be a very successful musical comedy built along familiar lines but staged and presented far above the average offering at popular prices. In fact, few comic operatic shows at higher prices are better done. In this piece the lunatic has an exaggerated time as it were. The costumes and stage effects are brilliant and the company in every way. The management will scarcely be able to offer a more meritorious musical comedy on the season.

POLICIES CONFLICT

YOU CANNOT EAT YOUR CAKE AND HAVE IT TOO.

If Through Reciprocity, Tariff Concessions, Competitive Imports are Increased There Must Be an Equivalent Decrease of Domestic Production and Wage Paying.

For the ability displayed in the editorial columns of the Washington Post we have always had a great deal of respect. But the line must be drawn somewhere. For example:

"By reciprocity and truly protective duties we will protect our trade abroad as well as at home, and greatly enlarge our foreign markets."

Truly protective duties are duties that protect, are they not? Assuming an affirmative reply, we would like to learn from the Post how it is possible to maintain duties that truly protect and at the same time carry on a system of reciprocity in competing products. Duties that protect hold the domestic market for domestic labor and industry, do they not? If they do not do that, then they do not protect. If they do protect, then they do not and cannot invite and promote a larger inflow of commodities that compete with and displace their equivalent of domestic production and labor.

There can be no competitive reciprocity with duties that are truly protective. The duties that protect and the duties that increase our foreign trade in competing articles on the incoming side must of necessity be two entirely different sets of duties. They cannot be the same.

It is perfectly apparent that the truth of this maxim in economics is wholly ignored and disregarded by the free traders and tariff wreckers who dominate the National Association of Manufacturers. They may and probably do know that adequate protection for all domestic industry and free trade reciprocity in competing products cannot exist side by side. To them that fact is not material. Their purpose is to market abroad increased quantities of their manufactures—manufactures which, by reason of patents or patented processes, do not require tariff protection. They are not troubled by the consideration that their scheme of sacrificing protection for reciprocity would work disaster to many industries that do require protection.

They put it this way: "We know that reciprocity in competing products will hurt some industries while benefiting others; but the gain to those which are benefited will be greater than the loss to those which are injured." These words are quoted literally from a speech made in 1901 by an advocate of reciprocity at a national convention of manufacturers in Washington nearly six years ago.

It was very much as though the thief should say to the man whose pocket he had just picked: "I know you will feel somewhat the loss of this money, but its possession will do me far more good than its loss can do you harm." At least this seemed to be the convention's view of the ethical soundness of the proposition, for the reciprocity scheme was voted down at the rate of a hundred to one.

Confident that the Washington Post entertains no approving opinion of the policy of fattening some industries at the expense of other industries, we would in all sincerity be glad if the Post would tell us just how reciprocity in competing products and "truly protective duties" can possibly go hand in hand.

No: it will not do. What the foreigner wants and must have if he is to get more of his goods into the American market is a system of duties that do not truly protect. Any other duties—duties that do protect—will not do him a particle of good. To him that would mean bogus reciprocity, a confidence game, a gold brick. The foreign manufacturer is not a fool. He wants to get into this market, the best in the world, and he is going to do it if he can get enough American co-operation. Perhaps he will succeed. We do not know. But if he does succeed it will be because the American people want to do less of their own work and want more of it done by foreigners. In that event, don't let us talk any more about "truly protective duties." They will have gone out of fashion.

The "Real" Prosperity.

At the present time one cannot but pause and marvel at the unparalleled prosperity which now hovers over this progressive nation. Every industry throughout the country is flourishing as never before, and a "full dinner pail" confronts every tradesman and laborer who is willing to toil. From east to west and from north to south comes the demand for men; harvest time is at hand and some industries may suffer for lack of help. There is no excuse for a single idler in the United States under present conditions, neither has there been for some years past—but just now the field of opportunity is broader and better than ever. And the end is not yet; advancement is certain where confidence is so pronounced and general. The country is without a serf or a slave, and with plenty of work at good wages should inspire everyone with a desire, from a political standpoint, to leave well enough alone. Just now there is a dearth of political talk, but nevertheless, it is well to remember that invariably times are good while the Republican party holds in. And who would care to, or can truthfully deny it? Let's have no thought of going back to the dark period of a few years ago.—Wyoming Press.

ALL DUE TO PROTECTION.

Prosperity in the Past Has Had But One Source.

In an address at Marshfield, Mass., August 22, Congressman McCall said:

"We are pretty near the edge of a financial setback. Economically an industrial crisis at this time would be senseless and wanton, but we should already have had one if our prosperity had not been well nigh invulnerable."

What was it that in the past ten years has made our prosperity well nigh invulnerable?

Production at the maximum and consumption keeping pace with production.

Abundance of employment at the highest wages ever known.

Liberal buying by wage earners at prices remunerative to both manufacturer and merchant.

A money market kept steady by favorable trade balances averaging close to half a billion dollars a year.

These were the prime factors of our rock-rooted prosperity.

What has shaken the foundations of that prosperity?

An insane rage for the disturbance of sound economic laws and ideal economic conditions, coupled with ill-judged fulminations against "predatory wealth," and no word of reproach for predatory political wreckers of business stability.

Foolish and probably unlawful "trade agreements" designed to take work and wages away from American labor and hand them over to foreigners.

Concerning which Congressman McCall might truthfully say: "All of which I saw and part of which I was."

How Cuban Reciprocity Works.

The round-up of trade with Cuba for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1907, does not show well for the wisdom which opened the door to a market of 85,000,000 consumers, the most liberal on earth, in return for some few extra privileges in a market of less than 2,000,000 of relatively small consumers.

Even as a proposition in philanthropy our reciprocity experiment with Cuba has not been a shining success. Briefly stated, our generosity in allowing the Cubans a rebate of tariff payments on their exports of sugar, tobacco and a few other things represents a money loss to this country of rather more than $66,000,000 a year.

In 1907 we bought of Cuba products worth $97,441,690, and we sold to Cuba our products to the value of $48,336,913.

The difference between our sales to and our purchases from Cuba was $49,111,777. Close upon $50,000,000 went out of our money supply and was used by Cuba in purchasing from foreign countries commodities which for the most part Cuba could, had she felt so inclined, have bought in the United States.

Then, too, on that nearly $98,000,000 of imports we granted a tariff rebate of 20 per cent. In this way something like $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 was kept from going into the United States treasury.

Add to the adverse trade balance of nearly $50,000,000 the amount lost in treasury revenue and you have a pretty big total representing the cost of our philanthropical "reciprocity" with Cuba. Somebody is making big money out of the deal, but it is not the United States.

THE OLD COURSE IS THE SAFEST.

Our ship of state will find itself in troubled waters if her navigators are permitted to throw overboard the chart and compass that for ten years have guided the noble vessel through seas of unparalleled prosperity.

Tariff Sense and Nonsense.

Mr. Bryan does not have much faith in the prediction that the tariff is to be the paramount idea in the next campaign. He says that, in his opinion, it will occupy no such place of importance. It will be merely incidental. Here is a matter upon which the Nebraskan is eminently right. There is nothing in the tariff to quarrel over. This country continues to believe in a protective tariff, which is the true basis of our industrial and commercial supremacy. This country is not going to abandon that policy next year. To abandon it or to modify it greatly even would bring upon this country industrial horrors compared with which those of a dozen years ago would be mild, indeed. As we are industrially greater now than we were then so our depression would be greater. Cedar Rapids Republican.

"Sumptuary laws," says a Nashville Democratic paper, "are becoming cardinal doctrines of the party that formerly insisted that the best government was the one that governed least." The Democratic party appears to be in a condition to flop promiscuously without seriously injuring its prospects.

CHALLENGE IS NOT ACCEPTED

NEW YORK YACHT CLUB REFUSES LIPTON'S RACE OFFER.

The Refusal Is Because Sir Thomas Proposed to Limit the Size of the Boats—Decision of Club's Members Unanimous.

New York City. — Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for a contest for the America's cup in 1908 was declined last night by the New York Yacht club. Sir Thomas asked for a race of sloops under the 68-foot rating and the members of the club based their refusal to race on the general proposition that the America's cup represents a trophy for the speediest type of yacht that can be produced on a water line length of 90 feet or under and that, therefore, any proposition to limit the size of the boats must be refused.

The members of the New York Yacht club at the meeting called to consider Sir Thomas' fourth challenge for a cup race, voted unanimously to reject the challenge, after Lewis Cass Ledyard, former commodore of the club, made a speech in which he described the deed of gift governing cup contests as drawn up by George L. Schuyler in 1887. Mr. Ledyard presented a resolution declaring that the club could not take the position of limiting the water line length of the boats under the deed of gift.

Commodore Cornelius Vanderbilt, chairman of the meeting, appointed a cup committee to convene immediately after the meeting and prepare a reply to the challenge. The cup committee, made up of Commodore Vanderbilt, J. P. Morgan, Lewis Cass Ledyard, E. D. Morgan, F. G. Bourne, Henry Walters, Rogers Maxwell and Oliver Iselin, had a session which continued long after midnight.

The sentiment of the club members at the meeting was that the Reliance, the winner of the last America's cup races, was still an unbeaten boat and that the race for the blue ribbon of the seas with smaller and therefore slower boats, was out of the question. Mr. Ledyard made the only speech at the meeting, which was attended by nearly 200 members of the club.

THE TRIAL OF SENATOR BORAH.

The Second Witness for the Prosecution Admits that He Is a Perjurer.

Boise, Idaho. — The first excitement in the trial of United States Senator William F. Borah for alleged conspiracy in land frauds came Wednesday when Albert Nugent, the second witness produced by the government, admitted on cross-examination that he committed perjury in taking out a timber land claim; admitted that he had been promised absolute immunity by an officer of the federal government for testifying; admitted that at the request of the federal officer he had sworn to a complaint against a man whom he did not know, and proclaimed that he believed it to be part of his bargain for his immunity that he should swear to any complaint against any person, regardless of any knowledge that he might have as to the person's guilt. When the name of the federal officer who induced him to sign the complaint was asked by Senator Borah's counsel the witness swore that he could not give it.

The day was given over to the introduction of a mass of paper on file at the land office at Boise and to the evidence of two men who said they received money from John I. Wells with which to prove their timber land claims. Wells is one of the men indicted with Borah. Counsel for the senator did not object to this testimony.

The defense scored its first point of the trial in the examination of the first witness, A. A. Anderson. He was asked by Special Prosecutor Rush what his intent was when he took out a timber claim. Judge Whitson sustained an objection, based on the ground that a man confessing perjury could not properly testify as to any secret intent he may have had.

Anderson and Nugent both testified that they received from John I. Wells $412 with which to prove their claims and each received $250 additional for transferring the claims to the Barber Lumber Co.'s interests. Two bills given to the men by Wells and a letter from Wells to Nugent were admitted in evidence. Anderson, an elderly Swede, was not cross-examined.

Prosecutor Rush asked Nugent when any officer of the government had ever asked him to swear falsely. Nugent replied that he had always been told to tell nothing but the truth.

Conspiracy to Start a Revolution.

Havana, Cuba.—A conspiracy to start a revolutionary movement in Cuba has been discovered. Under instructions issued by Gov. Magoon a number of persons believed to be connected with the conspiracy have been shadowed for several days past. It is believed that the movement is backed by New York capital. If by any chance the revolutionary movement had started the rural guards, backed by the American forces in the island, would have crushed it in its inception.

They Want $1.25 Wheat.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Minnesota union of the American Society of Equity, which claims the allegiance of 35,000 farmers in the northwest, on Wednesday passed a resolution at its convention calling on its members to hold wheat this fall until the price is $1.25. It was decided to hold flax for $1.30 at Minneapolis, oats for 70 cents, rye for 41 cents.

Toronto, Ont.—Toronto's ball club captured the first game with Columbus for Class A honors here Wednesday by 12 to 4.

TRYING TO BREAK IT GENTLY.

"Gloriana," said the young college professor, pale with emotion, "in my judgment the time has come for me to speak."

The young woman said nothing. She waited.

"I shall try to be brief," he proceeded, "but I cannot shake off the conviction that it is necessary for me to express what is in my mind, in order to clear the atmosphere. Gloriana, have you any fault to find with the manner in which I have conducted myself for the last two months?"

"Fault to find? No; not the least in the world."

"I am glad to hear that. It makes my task easier. On my part, I may say, with equal frankness, that there has been nothing in your conduct during that time to which I can take any exception whatever. And yet, Gloriana—please give me your close attention now—we do not seem to have been wholly in accord. Has it so occurred to you?"

"Perhaps."

"Precisely. We seem to have been drifting apart. I am unable to allege any reason. I find nothing tangible on which to base a complaint. Yet the possibility has presented itself to my mind that we have made a mistake. The idea may not have suggested itself to you. For that reason I have hesitated. In the natural order of things the—er—first intimation should come from you. May I hope that if I assume the prerogative myself it will give you no pain when I request that we formally cancel our engage—"

Authoritative.

Miss Prim—Mrs. DeFashion, I want to ask you a question. Some authorities say cheese should be eaten with a fork and some say with the fingers, the same as bread. Now, which is right?

Mrs. DeFashion—Both are right, my dear. New cheese should be handled with the fork, but very old cheese should be taken in the fingers. It might wriggle off the fork.—N. Y. Weekly.

Too Much Stuck Up.

Miss Upperten (daughter of a rich manufacturer)—Pardon me, miss, but I have not the honor of your acquaintance.

Miss Lowerten (who does not intend to be put down in that style)—I thought you had, at one time; but never mind. Perhaps if my father owned a big mucilage factory like your father's, I'd be stuck up, too.—N. Y. Weekly.

Wanted a Good Feed.

Mr. Kraftee—Henry, while you're at the telephone, just tell my wife I'll bring Mr. Topnotch home to dinner with me to-night.

Clerk—Beg pardon, sir, but Mr. Topnotch is out of town to-day, and won't be back.

Kraftee—I know it, but I feel as if I'd like to have just one good square meal.

SIXTY-HORSE POWER.

"I say, you've got a fine cheek to charge $15 for stabling my motor car one night in a rotten old barn not worth two cents."

FOOL THE PEOPLE

MOTTO OF "GET-RICH-QUICK" MEN AND FAKIRS.

HOW SCHEMES ARE WORKED

Desire to Get "Something for Nothing" Is Played Upon—Exercise of Common Sense Would End Graft.

"You can fool some of the people part of the time, but you can fool others all the time," seems to be a motto of the get-rich-quick men and "gold brick" operators. Pages of the daily and weekly press may be filled with warnings to readers to be on the lookout for swindlers, yet many who are credited with intelligence will keep right on biting at baits thrown out to them by various concerns who sell "cats in bags."

Psychologists say that every person has a weak spot somewhere in the brain. It seems that this softness is commonly manifested in false reasoning that frequently one can get something for nothing. Understanding this desire on part of the majority, the fakirs bait their hooks accordingly. There are large concerns which have built up great enterprises by representing to the people that with each bill of goods purchased the buyer gets "something for nothing."

Just think of a "graft" like this that will draw $1,800 worth of soap orders in a single month from a town of 10,000 people! But this is just what has been done within the past few months. Just think of wives of grocers and dry goods merchants in large cities joining "soap clubs" and paying a dollar each month to a foreign concern just to secure a premium, while their husbands could supply them at half the cost all the soap and the premium too! Yet such is the drawing power of "the something for nothing" argument. If the Creator gave these women common sense, they little know how to utilize it.

Some means should be devised to tax directly or indirectly the concerns in foreign cities that seek to do business directly with consumers through the mails. At present they are protected by the interstate commerce law. These concerns make their money by dealing with the people of some community, where they pay no taxes direct or license fees.

The merchants of the town are taxed upon the business they do. Is this proposition a fair one? The foreign insurance companies doing business in a state must pay a license fee for so doing. Why not compel the foreign mercantile concern to do the same? Our national laws should be so constructed as to provide that there be a tax on the amount of business transacted in a state by any mercantile concern in another state, unless the business be transacted by concerns which pay taxes within the state for the doing of such business.

FOR GREATER ECONOMY.

Manufacturing Drifting Closer to Fields Where Raw Material Is Produced.

Economy in every industry is becoming more pronounced year after year. Manufacturing centers are drifting toward locations where the raw materials can be secured at lower cost. During the past ten years cotton manufacturing in the south has increased more than a hundred per cent., and there has been a decrease in the production of textile manufacturing centers in the New England states in proportion to the increase in consumption. A score of years ago the great flour manufacturing centers were in New York and other eastern states. To-day the west controls manufactures of flour and cereal foods. When mills are located in centers of wheat and corn producing sections in number sufficient to utilize the crops of local territory, it will work a benefit to the farmers of the land in the saving of what is now paid in freight rates or raw products to manufacturing centers, and the distribution cost to consumers of the land. Every farmer can help better conditions and help himself by giving his support to local manufacturing enterprises.

An Advertising Trick.

Every reader of newspapers who has the power of observation knows the deception practiced in advertising. Often a fine picture of a stove or some other article has in large figures a price given which is a third of what the real worth of the article is, and the rest of the advertisement so skillfully worded as to give the impression that it is the article illustrated that is sent for the low price. This is for the purpose of securing an order for an article which, when received is found to be far different from what the person who sent the order expects to receive. How would the home merchant fare should he advertise in the same manner? Would he not be placed on the list of tricksters?

Building Up Trusts.

During the past ten years billions of dollars have been sent to the large cities by the residents of rural communities, and these billions have been used in building up trusts that work against the best interests of the masses who reside in agricultural sections. Is it not time to awaken to the dangers of sending money away from the home towns?

MAKING CHEAP GOODS.

Low Prices Too Often Mean Inferior Articles.

Efforts to cheapen cost of production of numerous classes of goods and to place them on the market in competition with well advertised lines, and at much lower price, has influenced not too honest manufacturers to turn out very inferior articles. So long as they can be made attractive in exterior appearance so as to please those whose tastes are for the "showy" seems to be the only consideration. In the manufacture of stoves and ranges particularly is there great opportunity for fraud. In different cities of the middle west are large concerns that make a specialty of manufacturing stoves to supply dealers who depend on cheapness to secure sales. These manufacturers buy from junk dealers all classes of old iron, and this remelted and worked over enters largely into their manufactured articles. The result is that a stove is produced that while it appears to be all right, a few months' use will prove it to be almost worthless. The tensile strength is not there, the metal is rotten and brittle, and the expansion caused by the heat makes it warp and crack. The linings are of the poorest material.

One of the tricks employed is the use of old sheet iron for lining. Throughout the south and in many of the large northern cities the manufacture of artificial ice is extensively carried on. Galvanized iron cans of the capacity of a 300-pound ice-cake are used, and in every large plant thousands of cans are in use. The ammonia that is used in the process of freezing soon causes the cans to corrode, and then they are rendered useless for the purpose required. The stove manufacturing concerns buy up these discarded cans, and use them for lining stoves. It can be judged that the life of the stove in this way is shortened, but as the stoves are never intended to last long, the lining is as good as the other material which enters into their composition. In appearance these stoves are all that can be desired, but their wearing and durable qualities are not half that of a properly made stove should be. They are often sold at as high prices as the best article, but more frequently are disposed of as "big bargains," and are dealt in extensively by concerns that advertise themselves as "manufacturers," and do business "direct with the consumers" through the mails. Makers of stoves who put out brands of goods known to be standard never resort to such methods, as one inferior stove might result in the loss of a dozen sales, and no reputable stove dealer or hardware merchant would handle the goods.

HOME NEWSPAPERS.

Are Factors in the Enlightenment of the People.

This is an era when the business man who would succeed must place the right value upon publicity. This is the most enlightened era the world has ever known. Only a small percentage of the people, particularly among the English speaking, cannot read and write, and in fact it is a rare thing to find an illiterate person in any American community.

In every farmer's house can be found from one to a dozen newspapers and periodicals.

The old-style farmer is fast passing, and there is a general admission that intelligence, in fact scientific training is needed on the farm as well as in the business house and factory. With telephones, daily rural delivery service and every innovation of civilization, the American farmer is fast becoming noted among the educated and advanced classes. They are readers, thinkers and logicians. Growing generations in agricultural communities have all the advantages that the youth of cities have, and few of the disadvantages. They surely breathe a healthier moral atmosphere. The farmers are the main support of the country press. They feel interested in all local affairs, and the home paper is the means of keeping them informed of things going on immediately about them. If the average merchant would give as substantial support to the home paper as does the farmer, the editor would not only be enabled to give the farmer a better paper, represent his interests better, but the merchant would receive a benefit in seeing his town improve and its business increased, and all his environments improved.

Millions Are Lost Annually.

Fifty millions of dollars annually is a conservative estimate of the amount that the people of the United States are swindled out of through the operation of fraudulent investment and insurance concerns.

How easily people are influenced to make investments in questionable concerns, has been recently strongly illustrated through the operations of the different alleged cooperative mercantile, home-building and investment schemes which have been declared fraudulent by the postal authorities. It is during the times of prosperity that the schemers find the richest field. People who never had the handling of much money, and who find in their possession a few hundreds of dollars, just have enough for the "taste" of wealth so that they are easy victims for the sharpers who operate "fake" enterprises which hold out alluring promises of great returns on small investments. State laws for the control of such concerns should be stringent, and severe punishment meted to those who operate them.

LEADERS OF PLOT ARE ARRESTED

THEY PLANNED TO START AN UPRISING IN CUBA.

ORIGINATED IN NEW YORK.

Americans Were Behind the Scheme and the Three Men Arrested Were Professional Agitators Hired for the Job.

Havana.—The secret police on Thursday arrested Gen. Masso Parra, and a little later took into custody Gen. Juan Ducassi and Gen. Lara Miret, charged with conspiring against public order.

Parra is the alleged leader of the conspiracy to start a revolution against the Americans in Cuba, with the use of funds supplied from or through some firm on Broadway, New York. It is known that simultaneously with the arrival of Parra at Havana three Santo Domingans well known on account of their previous revolutionary records, also reached this port, and it is stated that other individuals of a similar character are working in eastern Cuba.

It is known that the conspiracy originally was hatched in New York by certain Americans whose names, it is said, already are in possession of the United States secret service officers, and it is stated that the leaders here were simply professional revolutionists hired for the job.

In consequence of the arrests made here it is believed the movement will result in a miserable fiasco.

Gov. Magoon, however, is not taking any chances. He is amply prepared, with 5,000 American soldiers and 5,000 rural guards, to crush any movement an instant after it is started.

The governor issued a statement Thursday in which he said, regarding the arrest of Masso Parra, Juan Ducassi and Lara Miret, that he had been advised of their actions for some time past and had waited for them to carry out their work to some definite end. He was well aware of their conspiracy, and deemed it advisable to put an end to the disturbance they were creating.

To this the governor would add that Cuba had many important questions to occupy its attention for the next six or eight months, and it is desired that the minds of the people be not distracted from these important matters by agitators and disturbers of the peace of the island. The men arrested appear to be the leaders of this movement.

It was rumored here last night that Gen. Estanoz and Gen. Acosta had taken to the field, but the report could not be confirmed.

It is known that the leaders of the movement planned to start the revolution Thursday at seven different points simultaneously.

When Gen. Miret was taken into custody he was in an automobile and it is alleged he was preparing to leave for the locality assigned him.

Members of the conservative party are greatly worked up over the arrest of Gen. Ducassi, who has been declaring himself in sympathy with that party. A number of prominent conservatives called upon Gov. Magoon and insisted that Ducassi be released, urging his innocence. The governor replied that if he was innocent he would have ample time to prove it. The conservatives retired and after a consultation returned to plead again, but their second effort was as futile as the first.

THE CREDIT CURRENCY BILL.

Convention of Bankers Goes on Record as Approving It.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The report of the currency commission appointed by the American Bankers' association at St. Louis last year was made Thursday to the convention of the American Bankers' association now in session in this city. The report recommends a measure introduced in the last session of congress known as the credit currency bill. The provisions of the proposed act were made known to the convention by A. B. Hepburn, of New York, chairman of the commission. The report was adopted and the commission was continued and its powers enlarged.

An attack upon the plan of the commission was made by a number of western delegates, especially by A. J. Frame, of Michigan, who contended that the primary cause of money shortage in the United States was due to over-speculation and that the credit currency plan pointed backward to eighteenth century fiatism. As an alternative he advocated a central reserve fund. He was supported in his views by a number of other members, to all of whom Congressman Charles N. Fowler, of New Jersey, chairman of the house committee on banking and currency, replied in a stirring speech. He declared that this country is the only one without some form of credit currency.

Railroaders in Cuba Strike.

Havana. — A general strike of employes of the United Railroads and the Havana Central railroad was declared Thursday. Trains are running with the help of the engineers only, without firemen or conductors. A tieup of all the roads in the island is feared.

Lipton Will Issue Another Challenge.

London, Eng.—Sir Thomas Lipton, although disappointed at the failure of the New York Yacht club to accept his recent challenge, announced Thursday that he was prepared to challenge with a 90-foot boat, under the New York Yacht club rules.

Killed by an Automobile.

Newark, N. J.—Marcus J. Jacobs, manager of the Columbia theatre here, was run down and killed by an automobile as he was crossing Broad street last night. The machine was going at high speed and did not stop after the accident.

THE MEN BEHIND THE GUNS

MAKE FINE RECORDS IN SHOOTING AT TARGETS.

Men on Battleship Alabama Score 80 Per Cent. of Hits at a Distance of 6,000 Yards.

Washington, D. C. — Although the quarterly target practice of the Atlantic fleet is still in progress in Massachusetts Bay and the results are not formally reported to the navy department, returns have reached Washington showing that a remarkable degree of proficiency in target shooting has been reached by the gunners of the fleet. It is particularly gratifying to the officials of the department to note that this shooting has been accomplished at ranges that a few years ago would have been considered absolutely impossible.

For instance, in the Spanish war Admiral Schley was criticized for bombarding the Santiago Moro castle at a distance of 7,000 yards; yet the vessels of the Atlantic fleet during the past fortnight have been making splendid gun practice at ranges from 7,000 to 9,000 yards. The battleship Alabama has finished her practice and appears to be an easy winner. She made the remarkable score of 80 per cent. of hits with her 13-inch guns at a distance of about 6,000 yards, or nearly 3½ miles. Her firing was directed by Lieut. Landenberger, who was a member of the navy rifle team that won the national trophy at Camp Perry, O., last month.

The target used by all the ships was a canvas screen 30 feet high and 60 feet wide, yet it looked remarkably small at a distance of from three to four miles. The battleships steamed past at ten knots, beginning to shoot at the target when it was 5,000 yards away, the nearest distance, and continued shooting until the range became 9,000 yards, or five miles.

INTEND TO BRANCH OUT.

Independence Leaguers Propose to Extend Their Organization.

New York City. — The organization of a National Independence league was decided upon at a meeting Friday of representatives of state Independence leagues and others who are in sympathy with the objects of these leagues as outlined in state or local platforms. The national body will be a solidification of minor leagues existing or yet to be formed. Its aims are political and in opposition to the republican and democratic parties, which the league promoters declare are dominated by corporation interests and no longer are representative of the people.

Friday's conference was held at Carnegie hall, where some 200 men, said to represent 30 states, met at the invitation of the Independence league of this city and were addressed by William R. Hearst, the gubernatorial candidate last fall of the Independence league and democratic parties in this state. Before his endorsement by the democratic state convention and subsequent defeat by Gov. Hughes, Mr. Hearst was the Municipal league's candidate for mayor and was beaten by Mayor McClellan, the democratic nominee.

Afternoon and evening sessions were held, the feature of the afternoon being the address by Mr. Hearst, who said that the conference had been called to discuss the advisability of forming a National Independence league. He told of the success of the league in New York, Massachusetts and California, and urged the formation of a minor league in every state and the union of all in a general body. The republican and democratic parties, he said, were hopelessly in the control of corporation interests. They failed, he said, to truly represent the people and a third party was sorely needed.

There were other speeches, after which two committees, one on organization and another to prepare a platform outlining the aims of the national body, were appointed.

DUN'S TRADE REVIEW.

Reports of Retail Business are Favorable, but Manufacturing Returns are Not So Bright.

New York City.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Lower temperature accelerated the distribution of seasonable merchandise and mercantile collections became more prompt, but agricultural prospects were less bright in a few sections that experienced killing frost before the crops were beyond danger. Reports of retail trade are favorable with scarcely any exception, the fall demand equalling sanguine expectations, and jobbers in all leading lines of wearing apparel report the season's results equal to last year's.

Manufacturing returns are more irregular, but most plants are well occupied and have orders covering production for some months. Purchases for more remote delivery are restricted by the financial uncertainty. Scarcity of labor retards work at many points, while other delays are due to strikes, of which several are in progress. There is also much complaint of car shortage, but not more than is customary at this season.

Iron and steel producers are still fully occupied filling old orders and many plants have enough business on hand to be independent during the balance of this year, but new contracts are placed with increasing caution.

A Gettysburg Monument Is Dedicated.

Gettysburg, Pa. — The state of New York on Friday dedicated the bronze and marble monument on Culp's Hill erected by the state to commemorate the services of Gen. George Greene and the nine New York regiments under his command engaged in the night fight of July 2, 1863. Maj. Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, U. S. A., retired, presided.

Thomas A Edison, the great American inventor, says, "Fully eighty per cent. of the illness of mankind comes from eating improper food or too much food, people are inclined to over-indulge themselves." This is where indigestion finds its beginning in nearly all cases. The stomach can do just so much work and no more, and when you overload it, or when you eat the wrong kind of food, the digestive organs cannot possibly do the work demanded of them. It is at such times that the stomach needs help; it demands help, and warns you by headaches, belching, sour stomach, nausea and indigestion. You should attend to this at once by taking something that will actually do the work for the stomach. Kodol will do this. It is a combination of natural digestants and vegetable acids and contains the same juices found in a healthy stomach. It is pleasant to take. It digests what you eat. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Hard Times in Kansas.

The old days of grasshoppers and drouth are almost forgotten in the prosperous Kansas of to-day, although a citizen of Codell, Earl Shamburg, has not yet forgotten a hard time he encountered. The safest and most reliable cough and cold cure and lung and throat healer ever discovered. Guaranteed at all drug stores. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

His Dear Old Mother.

"My dear old mother, who is now eighty-three years old, thrives on Electric Bitters," writes W. H. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. That's the way Electric Bitters affect the aged, and the same happy results follow in all cases of female weakness and general debility. Weak, puny children too, are greatly strengthened by them. Guaranteed also for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, by all Druggists. 50c.

SOUND THE SLOGAN

Trio of Distinguished Pennsylvanians Blaze the Way.

REPUBLICAN LINES SOLID

Senator Knox, Governor Stuart and Former Postmaster General Smith Unite In Call to Elect John O. Sheatz State Treasurer.

[Special Correspondence.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 1.

United States Senator Philander C. Knox, Governor Edwin S. Stuart and former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith make a distinguished trio that have gone upon record, within the last few days, in most emphatic terms in favor of the election of John O. Sheatz, the Republican nominee for state treasurer.

Not only have they eulogized Mr. Sheatz in the highest terms, but they have sent a note of warning to Republicans of the Keystone state of the danger that would come to the Republican party in the nation as the result of a Democratic victory in Pennsylvania this fall.

Upon the eve of a presidential campaign, they plead for the wiping out of all factional lines, the cementing of the party organization, and a vigorous and aggressive onslaught upon the works of the common enemy in this, the skirmish of a great national political battle.

Knox Points the Way.

Senator Knox, who is taking a lively interest in the state campaign, has, over his own signature, just given expression to these sentiments:

"We have in Pennsylvania this year a perfectly simple proposition, and one in respect to which I do not think it is possible to mislead the public.

"The Republican party has presented a good candidate on his own and his party's good record; and, after all, how much more substantial a record is than a prospectus. There are no side issues this year and no middle ground. The issue of the campaign now on is the approval or disapproval of the party's unswerving continuity of act and purpose to express the public will in legislation and administration.

Live Issues Are Met.

"The Republican party in Pennsylvania has responded to the awakened political and commercial conscience of the people in a way which would commend itself to all to whom political and commercial rights are dear. The reform measures for the protection of the elective franchise; the abolishing of fees in elective offices; the safeguarding of the state's funds and other legislation of the late extra session of the legislature of the commonwealth, to which has been added the legislation of last winter of almost equal importance in character and effect, constitute a record of real achievement for which the Republican party can justly claim credit.

"The last time we tried conclusions in Pennsylvania with our friends of the opposition we marched to victory with Edwin S. Stuart at the head of the ticket, who, as governor, has fulfilled all the expectations and predictions expressed of him.

"Now, with a record of permanent reform to our credit, one of the fruits of which was the untrammeled selection of John O. Sheatz by delegates directly chosen by the people, we should poll a vote for this candidate of unassailed integrity and large public experience that will set at rest once and for all the shallow pretense that Republican success in this campaign involves anything beyond the indorsement of Republican policies and the calling of a well-tried and tested public servant to higher honors and graver responsibilities for which he is eminently qualified."

Governor Goes Upon Record.

Governor Stuart, who has promised to make one or more speeches in favor of Mr. Sheatz's election, in commenting upon the issues in the state canvass, said:

"This campaign turns solely upon the election of a state treasurer, and next to the election of an honest man it is important to elect a Republican. I do not propose to indulge in personalities. Mr. Harman is an upright, honest man. I have known Mr. Sheatz for 20 years, and there is no reason why every Republican cannot vote for John O. Sheatz for state treasurer. I was in almost daily contact with Mr. Sheatz during the legislative session. He was chairman of that most important committee, appropriations, and I know no man who ever held public office or trust who took care of the purse strings more honestly than did he.

"Every act that he performed was for the good of the commonwealth. I say this from a personal knowledge of the man. Sheatz stands for honesty in politics and decency in the management of public affairs. Any man who stands for anything else is not a Republican and not deserving of the name."

A Tip to the Independents.

Former Postmaster General Charles Emory Smith, and one time minister to Russia, is already upon the stump advocating the election of the Republican nominee for state treasurer.

Mr. Smith is looked upon as expressing the views of those with whom he has been associated in independent political movements in this state, and his pronounced stand in behalf of Mr. Sheatz has discouraged the Democrats, who had been counting upon independent support for their ticket.

"I am glad," says Mr. Smith, "that the Republican party is now united in Pennsylvania in support of an exceptionally strong candidate for the office of state treasurer.

"The party is harmonious, and I am asking all who have stood with me in the past, for the principles which I have championed, to give loyal and earnest support to the Republican nominee for state trasurer, Mr. John O. Sheatz.

"Mr. Sheatz has a splendid record as a member of the general assembly.

"In 1905 he alone of all the members of the legislature from Philadelphia had the courage and independence to stand up and vote against the ripper bill. He was chairman of the committee of appropriations, and in all the work of that important committee, around which the cormorants of the state flutter, there is not a single blot or blemish, and there has not been a criticism of any of its actions."

Messrs. Knox, Stuart and Smith all predict the election of Mr. Sheatz by a large majority.

To Republicans—Just a Word.

Although afforded the widest opportunity for investigation, the Democratic members of the Capitol investigating Commission, aided by able counsel of their own political faith, have utterly failed in the attempt to fasten any of the wrongdoing in the Capitol job on the Republican party as an organization. That men who owe their political prominence and the offices they so unworthily filled to the Republican party are implicated, is true; but that party promises to see that justice is dealt out to those who robbed the State, as well as those officials whose supineness, if not worse, aided the looters.

It is silly to assume, as some bigoted partisans do, that there is any greater average of honesty in the Democratic than in the Republican party. Dishonest men are not partial in the distribution of their party fealty. Attached to the organization of every political party are men who are always "on the make." There is no doubt that the precentage of defaulters, crooked officials, and looters of public funds is distributed in about equal proportion among the political parties. To assume than any greater degree of intelligence, any greater proportion of honesty and efficiency, attaches to members of one party than to those of another, is an argument of the salient fanatic.

To attempt the argument that Pennsylvania must elect any Democrat selected by Col. Guffey for State Treasurer in order that the Capitol thieves be punished and future raids prevented, is an insult to the great majority of the people of the State, who are Republicans. To argue that the people's moneys are not safe unless intrusted to the keeping of a Mr. Harman, introduced to the public Wednesday as the Democratic nominee for Treasurer, is an assumption that Republicans may not hereafter be intrusted with that office.

Stripped of all its bosh and misrepresentation, the Democratic argument is revealed as simply an attempt to rejuvenate that organization in preparation for next year's important campaign. If Col. Guffey's Mr. Harman were to be elected State Treasurer, the event would be halted by every Democratic paper from Maine to California as a great Democratic victory. Even the Bryan organs would, by their peculiar style of reasoning (?) find comfort for their cause.

The plain duty of Republican voters in Pennsylvania is to elect John O. Sheatz. There is no claim that he is not honest, capable and fit in every way. There is no claim that he is owned by any faction, clinque, or individual. He is the choice of a Republican convention, unhampered by any dictation. In the face of the most bitter and vindictive charges, notwithstanding fanantical misrepresentation, the people of Pennsylvania chose Edwin S. Stuart as their Governor, and are not disappointed in that choice. That he will push an unrelenting and vigorous prosecution of the Capitol looters is assured. Every guilty man that can be reached will pay the penalty. His record in Philadelphia assures the people that no specious plea will save a single malefactor.

Wise Republicans will not aid in the project to encourage the Democratic party in the Nation by defeating the Republican nominee for Treasurer. They will not, if they are wise, hearken to the sophistry of the eager Democratic organs which preach the doctrine of Republican dishonesty and Democratic saintliness. Should they do so, and Pennsylvania be made to appear as favoring the Democratic party, they must not be surprised at the Democratic snicker, the laugh in the sleeve, that will greet them, the morning after.—Johnstown Tribune.

BALTIMORE OLD HOME WEEK.

Maryland is sending invitations to her sons and daughters scattered everywhere to come to a grand reunion, and is making extensive preparations to give them when they come, a week of right royal entertainment.

New Baltimore, sprung Pheonix-like from the ashes of the fire of 1904, will make of Old Home Week, October 13 to 19, one continual round of patriotic and civic display.

There will be an electrical pageant, a magnificent military and naval display, a gathering of patriotic societies, a parade and ball by the fraternal orders, a big concert, a night carnival.

There will also be a special pilgrimage to Annapolis on "Peggy Stewart Day," Saturday, October 19, when visitors will have an opportunity to inspect the magnificent new buildings of the United States Naval Academy and the remodeled State House, so full of historic associations.

The Homecomers will have the advantage of specially low railroad rates. The Pennsylvania Railroad will sell excursion tickets to Baltimore, October 12 to 14, good for return passage until October 21, inclusive, from all stations on its lines north and east of Shrewsbury, Principio, and Port Deposit, at a considerable reduction from the regular fare.

Every former Marylander whose address is known will receive a special invitation, issued by Governor Warfield, and the whole week will thrill with the hospitality for which the Old Line State is so famous.

For exact rates, conditions of tickets, and train service, consult nearest Ticket Agents.

SYNOPSIS.

The American consul to Barscheit, a principality of Europe, tells how the reigning grand duke had tried to find a husband for his rebellious niece, the Princess Hildegarde, finally decreeing that she wed the Prince of Doppelkinn, an ugly old widower, ruler of the neighboring principality. Though he had been in the country for six months the American consul had never seen the princess. While horseback riding in the country night overtakes him, and he seeks accommodation in a dilapidated old castle. While seeking admission he is startled by a beautiful voice breaking into song.

CHAPTER II.—Continued.

Had I stumbled upon one of my dreams at last? Had Romance suddenly relented, as a coquette sometimes relents? For a space I knew not what to do. Then, with a shrug—I have never been accused of lacking courage—I tried once more, by the aid of a match, to locate a bell. There was absolutely nothing; and the beating of my riding crop on the panels of that huge door would have been as noisy as a feather. I grasped the knob and turned it impatiently. Behold! the door opened without sound, and I stepped into the hallway, which was velvet black.

Silence!

The song died. All over that great rambling structure not even the reassuring chirp of a cricket! I stood perfectly still. What the deuce should I do? Turn back? As I formed this question in my mind a draft of wind slammed the door shut. I was in for it, sure enough; I was positive that I could never find that door again.

Heaven knows how long I waited.

Soon I heard a laugh, light, infectious, fearless! Then I heard a voice, soft and pleading:

"Don't go; in mercy's name, don't go, Gretchen! You may be killed!"

English! I had actually heard a voice speak my native tongue.

"Nonsense, Betty! I am not afraid of any ghost that ever walked, rode or floated."

"Ghost? It may be a burglar!"

"Or Steinbock! We shall find nothing."

Indeed!

"Nothing but a rat, bugling about in the armor." The laughter came again. "You are not afraid, Betty?"

"Only cautious. But how can you laugh? A rat?" cried a voice rather anxiously. "Why, they are as big as dogs!"

"But arrant cowards."

So! one of these voices spoke English as its birthright; the other spoke with an accent, that is to say, by adoption. Into what had I fallen? Whither had my hunger brought me? I was soon to learn.

There came a faint thread of light on one side of the hall, such as may be likened to that which filters under a door-sill. Presently this was followed by the sound of jangling brass rings. A heavy velvet portiere—which I, being in darkness, had not discovered—slipped back. My glance, rather blinded, was first directed toward the flame of the candle. Then I lowered it—and surrendered for ever and for ever!

I beheld two faces in profile, as it were, one side in darkness, the other tinted and glowing like ancient ivory. I honestly confess to you that in all my wanderings—and they have been frequent and many—I never saw such an enchanting picture or two more exquisite faces. One peered forth with hesitant bravery; the other—she who held the candle—with cold, tranquil inquiry.

All my fears, such as they were, left me instantly. Besides, I was not without a certain amount of gallantry and humor. I stepped squarely into the light and bowed.

"Ladies, I am indeed not a ghost, but I promise you that I shall be if I am not offered something to eat at once!"

Tableau!

"What are you doing here?" asked she with the candle, her midnight eyes drawing down her brows into a frown of displeasure.

I bowed. "To begin with, I find a gate unlocked, and being curious, I open it; then I find a door unlatched, and I enter. Under these unusual circumstances I am forced to ask the same question of you: what are you doing here in this ruined castle? If it isn't ruined, it is deserted, which amounts to the same thing." This was impertinent, especially on the part of a self-invited guest.

"That is my affair, sir. I have a right here, now and at all times." Her voice was cold and authoritative. "There is an inn six miles farther down the road; this is a private residence. Certainly you can not remain here over night."

"Six miles?" I echoed dismally. "Madam, if I have seemed impertinent, pardon me. I have been in the saddle six hours. I have ridden nearly 30 miles since noon. I am dead with fatigue. At least give me time to rest a bit before taking up the way again, I admit that the manner of my entrance was informal; but how was I to know? There was not even a knocker on the door by which to make known my presence to you." The truth is, I did not want to go at once. No one likes to stumble into an adventure—enchanting as this promised to be—and immediately pop out of it. An idea came to me, serviceable rather than brilliant. "I am an American. My German is poor. I speak no French. I have lost my way, it would seem; I am hungry and tired. To ride six miles farther now is a physical impossibility; and I am very fond of my horse."

"He says he is hungry, Gretchen," said the English girl, dropping easily into the French language as a vehicle of speech. (I was a wretch, I know, but I simply could not help telling that lie; I didn't want to go; and they might be conspirators.) "Besides," went on the girl, "he looks like a gentleman."

"We can not always tell a gentleman in the candle-light," replied Gretchen, eyeing me critically and shrewdly and suspiciously.

As for me, I gazed from one to the other, inquiringly, after the manner of one who hears a tongue not understandable.

"He's rather nice," was the English girl's comment; "and his eyes strike me as being too steady to be dishonest."

I had the decency to burn in the ears. I had taken the step, so now I could not draw back. I sincerely hoped that they would not exchange any embarrassing confidences. When alone women converse upon many peculiar topics; and conversing in a tongue which they supposed to be unknown to me, these two were virtually alone.

"But, my dear child," the other returned argumentatively, "we can not offer hospitality to a strange man this night of all nights. Think of what is to be accomplished."

(So something was to be accomplished? I was right, then, in deceiving them. To accomplish something on a night like this, far from habitation, had all the air of a conspiracy.)

"Feed him and his horse, and I'll undertake to get rid of him before that detestable Steinbock comes. Besides, he might prove a valuable witness in drawing up the papers."

(Papers?)

"I never thought of that. It will not do to trust Steinbock wholly." Gretchen turned her searching eyes once more upon me. I confess that I had some difficulty in steadying my own. There are some persons to whom one can not lie successfully; one of them stood before me. But I rather fancy I passed through the ordeal with at least half a victory. "Will you go your way after an hour's rest?" she asked, speaking in the familiar tongue.

"I promise." It was easy to make this promise. I wasn't a diplomat for nothing. I knew how to hang on, to dodge under, to go about.

"Follow me," Gretchen commanded briefly.

We passed through the gloomy salon. A damp, musty odor struck my sense of smell. I was positive that the castle was uninhabited, save for this night. Three candles burned on the mantel, giving to the gloom a mysterious, palpitating effect. The room beyond was the dining-room, richly paneled in wine-colored mahogany. This was better; it was cheerful. A log crackled in the fireplace. There were plenty of candles. There was a piano, too. This belonged to the castle; a heavy tarpaulin covering lay heaped at one side. There was a mahogany sideboard that would have sea-food salad, asparagus, white bread and unsalted butter, an alcohol-burner over which hung a tea-pot, and besides all this there was a pint of La Rose which was but half-emptied. Have you ever been in the saddle half a day? If you have, you will readily sent a collector of antiques into raptures, and a table upon which lay the remains of a fine supper. My mouth watered. I counted over the good things: roast pheasant, pink ham, a appreciate the appetite that was warring with my curiosity.

"Eat," bade she who was called Gretchen, shortly.

"And my horse?"

"Where is it?"

"Tied to a tree by the gate."

She struck a Chinese gong. From the kitchen appeared an elderly servitor who looked to me more fitted to handle a saber than a carving knife; at least, the scar on his cheek impressed me with this idea. (I found out later that he was an old soldier, who lived alone in the castle as caretaker.)

"Take this gentleman's horse to the stables and feed him," said Gretchen. "You will find the animal by the gate."

With a questioning glance at me the old fellow bowed and made off.

I sat down, and the two women brought the various plates and placed them within reach. Their beautiful hands flashed before my eyes and now and then a sleeve brushed my shoulder.

"Thank you," I murmured. "I will eat first, and then make my apologies."

This remark caught the fancy of Gretchen. She laughed. It was the same laughter I had heard while standing in the great hall.

"Will you drink tea, or would you prefer to finish this Bordeaux?" she asked pleasantly.

"The wine, if you please; otherwise the effect of the meal and the long hours in the wind will produce sleepiness. And it would be frightfully discourteous on my part to fall asleep in my chair. I am very hard to awake."

The English girl poured out the wine and passed the goblet to me. I touched my lips to the glass, and bent my head politely. Then I resolutely proceeded to attack the pheasant and ham. I must prove to these women that at least I was honest in regard to my hunger. I succeeded in causing a formidable portion of the food to disappear.

And then I noticed that neither of the young women seated herself while I ate. I understood. There was no hostility in this action; nothing but formality. They declined to sit in the presence of an unwelcome stranger, thus denying his equality from a social point of view. I readily accepted this decision on their part. They didn't know who I was. They stood together by the fireplace and carried on a conversation in low tones.

How shall I describe them? The elder of the two, the one who seemed to possess all the authority, could not have been more than 20. Her figure was rather matured, yet it was delicate. Her hair was tawny, her skin olive in shade and richly tinted at the cheekbones. Her eyes, half framed by thick, black-arching brows, reminded me of woodland pools in the dusk of the evening,—depths unknown, cool, refreshing in repose. The chin was resolute, the mouth was large but shapely and brilliant, the nose possessed the delicate nostrils characteristic of all sensitive beings—that is to say, thoroughbreds; altogether a confusing, bewildering beauty. At one moment I believed her to be Latin, the next I was positive that she was Teutonic. I could not discover a single weak point, unless impulsivene shall be called weakness; this sign of impulsiveness was visible in the lips.

"I Beheld Two Faces in Profile, as It Were."

PROPRIETARY REMEDIES VS. PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS

Statistics Show, of the Deaths from Misuse of Drugs in Two Years, Only Three Per Cent. Were Due to Patent Medicines, According to Figures Based on Medical Certificates.

The press committee of the Proprietary Association of America will present at the next meeting of that body a report showing the number of accidental deaths caused by patent medicines in the two years ending June 30, 1907, as compared with deaths from other causes.

Almost immediately after the beginning of the latest crusade against proprietary medicines this committee was instructed to collect data. This work was done through the clipping bureaus, which furnished accounts of all deaths, exclusive of suicide, due to the misuse of medicines, drugs or poisons. The result showed that only three per cent. could be traced directly to the products made by the members of the association.

The greatest care is said to have been exercised in tabulating the figures received. Whenever the cause of death was doubtful, special investigation was made, no matter where the case might have occurred. The work of assorting and preparing the record was done in Chicago, and the original clippings and correspondence are in the possession of Ervin F. Kemp, 184 La Salle street, that city, the association's publicity agent. The report says, in part:

"A large number of accidents, resulting fatally or otherwise, were caused by the carelessness of persons who left drugs, medicines or poisons within the reach of children. A large number, also, were caused by persons going to medicine cabinets in the dark and taking down the wrong bottle. In no case reported was any medicine, 'patent' or otherwise, held responsible for injury or death except when left within the reach of children or taken or administered in gross overdose."

The committee says that it is unlikely that any cases of death from the use of patent medicine escaped the newspapers, but that it is probable that death from the causes tabulated did occur without receiving publicity. Physicians, of course, report the causes of death. The committee says that they would be the last to suppress the cause if due to the use of medicine not regularly prescribed.

A recapitulation of the committee's findings show 4,295 cases of poisoning, of which 1,753 were fatal. The greatest number of cases, 1,636, with 803 deaths, is attributed to medicines other than proprietary remedies. There are on the list 90 cases of sickness and 43 deaths due to patent medicines.

Analyzing its statistics, the committee finds 201 cases of sickness, with 143 deaths, due to strychnine tablets, which are among physicians' favorite remedies and are often left within the reach of children.

Under the head of miscellaneous prescriptions are grouped 44 cases where, the report says, it has been impossible after diligent inquiry to ascertain the name or the character of the drug or medicine which caused injury or death, beyond the fact that the medicine or drug was prescribed by a physician. Of these cases 18 were fatal. The committee says:

"Under the head of 'All Patent Medicines' are grouped all those remedies which are recognized as patent medicines and which are advertised direct to the public for internal use. Competent authorities say that at least one-half of the medicines taken in the United States are of the kind known as 'patent medicine,' and yet in two years among 80,000,000 people there have been but ninety cases (forty-three fatal) that have been reported in the newspapers from the use or misuse of these remedies."

Not in a single fully substantiated case is it ever charged that any patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious. In this connection it should be understood that in making death certificates and in reporting cases of injury to the newspapers from which these cases were secured, a physician had the final word, and in this connection is there any probability that the doctor will hide his own carelessness or neglect or that of a fellow practitioner whose support he may want at some time, and is there even a possibility that he might hide any responsibility that could be thrown at a patent medicine? Ask yourself these questions. Then when you have found the answer, consider that during all this most thorough and careful investigation covering a period of two years, in not a single established case was it shown that patent medicine in recommended doses was injurious.

The most remarkable case reported was that of an Italian laborer in New York who suffered from pains in the chest. A physician ordered a porous plaster which the patient ate, with fatal results.

Dugald's Explanation.

Staying at an inn in Scotland a shooting party found their sport much interfered with by rain. Still, wet or fine, the old-fashioned barometer that hung in the hall persistently pointed to "set fair." At length one of the party drew the landlord's attention to the glass, saying: "Don't you think now, Dugald, there's something the matter with your glass?" "No, sir," replied Dugald, with dignity; "she's a gude glass and a powerful glass, but she's no' moved wi' trifles."

For him who aspires and him who loves, life may lead through the therns, but it never stops in the desert.—Lord Lytton.

Cut the lower side of one of the ends off round, so that it can be turned over readily. For large hogs, says Farm and Home, this trough should be made of larger size than described above.

REMOVING HORNS FROM CATTLE.

Better to Let Them Grow and Then Dehorn Than to Prevent Growth.

Many who write on this subject recommend the removal of horns, so to speak, by preventing them from growing. This sounds well, but it is at least open to question as to whether it is better to prevent horns from growing by the application of some caustic material or to take them off at a later period.

To prevent horns from growing is not in all instances the easy task that some persons imagine it to be. If too much caustic potash, which is generally used, is applied, it will burn too deeply. If too little is applied the horns will not be sufficiently checked, and a second application will be necessary. Many of those who have used this application have not used it with entire success. The result has been miniature horns that have been more or less deformed. The caustic is more or less dangerous to handle. If any of it should reach any other part, and this is easily possible unless the calves are isolated, it will remove the hair. It is also very easy to injure the fingers unless great care is exercised in handling the potash, and it must be kept with care or it will waste. But there is the strong objection, says Orange Judd Farmer, to such dehorning arising from the fact that animals dehorned young learn to push with the head and to strike in a way that they would not if the horns were allowed to grow until they can punch just a little with them and they are then cut off. The loss of the horns seems to discourage them so much that it takes all of the fight out of them. The most docile animals by far are those who have lost their horns after they have come to know how they could use them.

HINTS FOR FARM HORSES.

Never shout at a young horse while training him.

A well grown yearling is worth more than a stunted two-year-old.

Keep the colt's feet in good shape. Do not let the toes become too long.

Irregular feeding makes thin horses, no matter what amount is given.

The oat box should be large, with broad bottom, so that the oats will scatter and not be bolted.

The brood mare should have a few hours' exercise in the yard or on the road every day. It does not pay to keep her confined.

The horses and colts should be kept away from the hens and hogs. The odor of the pigpen is offensive to the horse, and hen lice are hard to eradicate.

See to it that the work collars fit and that they are kept soft and clean. There are few things more discouraging in the beginning of a busy season than horses with sore shoulders, and this vexation and cruelty can be avoided by the exercise of proper care.

Breed only to pure sires. Use pure bred dams if possible.—Coleman's Rural World.

Hitch a steady team to a hayrack, lowdown wheels preferred, and let while another with a good sharp one man drive slowly along the hedge while another with a good sharp scythe stands on the rack and mows off the tender shoots. Stop the team as necessary and work up along the rack. The flat rack is the handiest and works faster. With a little practice part of the mowing can be done as the team is moving, says Wallace's Farmer. By this method one man and a boy to drive trimmed eighty rods of fence down one side and back on the other in less than three hours.

Dip the Hogs.

Do not allow yourself to get so busy that you do not have time to dip the hogs at least once a month. Besides freeing them from lice and numerous skin diseases it opens up the pores of their skin and tends to promote the general health of the hord.

Poison for Mice.

A reader sends the following: One part flour, one part sugar and one part arsenic mixed well, makes an ideal poison for mice. They eat it readily and do not produce a disgusting smell when they die.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years—Relieved In Three Months.

MR. C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky., writes:

"I have suffered with kidney and other trouble for ten years past.

"Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. I have not used it since, nor have I felt a pain.

"I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna."

Peruna For Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Ontario, Can., writes:

"I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in fact, felt badly nearly all the time.

"This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Manalin.

"I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and now I feel better than I have for some time.

"I feel that Peruna and Manalin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruna."

It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. They are times when they need a little assistance.

Peruna is exactly the sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys service at a time when they were not able to bear their own burdens.

THE ELECTRICAL WORLD

NEW HAIR-DRYING COMB.

Electricity from Battery in Handle Forced Through Teeth.

Another use has been discovered for electricity. A California man purposes to use it in conjunction with a device he has patented for drying the hair. Everyone is familier with the difficulties attending the drying of women's hair. The ordinary method resorted to is to sit patiently in the sunlight, three or four hours being consumed in the process.

With the aid of the comb shown here the hair can be dried in less than half an hour, says the Detroit Free Press. In the handle is a metallic tube, which extends to the end of the comb. Within the handle is a small battery for electricity, the latter circulating through the tube to the teeth of the comb. The teeth are perforated, to allow the heat thus generated to escape and enter the hair when the comb is being used. A heating element is placed with the tube to properly hold and distribute the heat. It is surprising how quickly the hair can be dried with the aid of this comb. The heat is forced close to the scalp, the most difficult and the hardest part of the hair to dry thoroughly.

ADJUSTABLE DROP LIGHT.

Simple Method by Which the Electric Bulb Can Be Raised or Lowered.

or other supports over the spot where you wish an electric light to be suspended. Attach a cord to the roller and wind it so as to coil the spring when it is pulled down, just as a shade would do. Tie the other end of the cord to the insulated wire of your electric light. Of course, explains a writer in Popular Mechanics, the latter can now be made to hang at any desired elevation.

Song by Phone Gets Position.

A young woman at Reading, Pa., has started a new way of securing an operatic engagement, by singing a sample number into a long distance telephone to a manager in Philadelphia. She got the job. The scheme opens up a variety of possibilities. In case an aspirant for the stage is long on voice but short on looks or shape the idea of inducing the manager to listen to her singing through the telephone is decidedly clever, for both distance and mystery lend their enchantment. On the other hand, may not this young woman's success in getting an engagement "on the wire" cause such a rush of singers to the telephone booths that managers will absolutely refuse to listen to any telephonic tones, however sweet?

Electro-Chemical Colors.

The preparation of mineral and artificial organic colors by the aid of electricity has recently made consirerable progress, and it is suggested that the products in this new industry may eventually replace those derived from coal-tar. Among the colors now produced in commercial quantities by the employment of the electric current, says the Youths' Companion, are vermilion, Scheele's green, cadmium yellow, Japanese red, cerise, or cherry red, Berlin green and zinc whites, besides a number of organic colors. The process consists essentially in sending an electric current through a solution containing the elements required for the production, by precipitation, of the coloring matter desired.

Phonograph Burglar Alarm.

Many people in Paris are putting in a new burglar alarm consisting of a phonograph with electric attachment to every door and window. If either is opened, voices begin shouting in every room of the house, "Help! Help! Police! Thieves! Murderers!" and keep it up for ten minutes without a break. At the same time the apparatus sends in an alarm to the nearest police station.

SAVED MUCH TIME.

Drying an Electric Plant After a Big Flood.

The power house of a large Eastern manufacturing concern was recently flooded with water to a height sufficient to cover the two turbo-generators, two-thirds of the switch-board and a large part of the auxiliary apparatus, including the exciter units and the condenser pump motors. S. L. Sinclair and E. D. Tyree, who were called upon to get the plant in operation with the least possible delay, tell how they did so, in the Electric Journal.

Upon arriving at the power house it was found that the employes of the local company were attempting to dry out the generators by the use of a steam coil enclosed in an air flue. A blower was connected at one end of the flue and the other end opened at the generators so that hot air could be blown through the generator windings. This method would have taken an indefinite time to dry out the generators. It was therefore abandoned and an enclosure of sheet iron and tin, that was found around the works, was built up around the generators. Inside of this enclosure were placed a number of charcoal furnaces made of powder kegs. Thermometers were suspended near the generators and the temperature inside the enclosure was maintained at 85 degrees C.

While the generators were being dried by this process a small hoisting engine was belted to a 20-hp. motor for use as an exciter. Arrangements were also made with the local railway company to furnish 500-volt direct current for making tests of insulation resistance. Insulation tests were made with a 600-volt direct-current meter having an internal risistance of 85,000 ohms.

After the generator had been drying for 36 hours the insulation resistance was about half the normal value. The generator was then started on a short-circuit heat run, and at the expiration of 30 hours, making 66 hours in all, the readings showed that the insulation was thoroughly dry and the generator was ready to go into service.

The second generator was dried in the same manner, with the same results. The motors, exciters and switch-board were dried by the use of charcoal furnaces.

FOR THE PHOTOGRAPHER.

Home-Made Arc Lamp for Making of Blue-Prints.

An arc lamp that will save time and trouble for those having large quantities of blueprinting or photographic work may be built as follows:

In a plaster mold, cast two lead uprights as per sktech. If you want a fancy job make them of brass. Drill and tap the shoulder for a ⅜-in. bolt and the base for a 10-24 machine screw. Thread two ¾-in. bolts 4 in. long up to the head (B, Fig. 1), pass on a lock nut, N, and then screw one through each of the uprights. Bush the ends of the bolts to fit tightly inside of a piece of thin wall brass tube 2 in. long by ½ in. inside diameter, the other end of the tube being double slotted (T, Fig. 1). Two pieces of ½-in. carbon, such as is used for trimming ordinary arc lamps, should be forced into the tube, the slotted ends gripping them firmly (C, Fig. 1).

The two uprights should then be mounted on a board, over which has been pasted a piece of asbestos ⅛ in. thick, at right angles, so that when the bolts are screwed clear back the carbons will be about ½ in. apart.

As the lamp will probably have to operate on a 110-volt circuit it will be necessary to have some sort of a resistance to hold down the current to the required 50 volts at the arc and 5 amperes also for regulation.

For this resistance we will need about 100 feet of bare German silver wire No. 18 which may be wound on porcelain insulators on the face of a board which has been lined with asbestos. A 4-point switch should be connected in to cut out the required resistance for regulation. Small prints from linen tracings may be done in from 8 to 15 seconds, while those from co-ordinate paper will take from 40 to 80 seconds. With this piece of apparatus you can do as good work as can be done with a lamp that would cost in the open market from $10 to $25.

With suitable lenses, declares Popular Mechanics, this lamp may also be used in connection with a stereopticon.

A MISSOURI WOMAN

Tells a Story of Awful Suffering and Wonderful Relief.

Mrs. J. D. Johnson, of 603 West Hickman St., Columbia, Mo., says:

"Following an operation two years ago, dropsy set in, and my left side was so swollen the doctor said he would have to tap out the water. There was constant pain and a gurgling sensation around my heart, and I could not raise my arm above my head. The kidney action was disordered and passages of the secretions too frequent. On the advice of my husband I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. Since using two boxes my trouble has not reappeared. This is wonderful, after suffering two years."

TRUSTED TO THE MOSQUITOES.

All Officer Had to Do Was Sit on the Bank and Wait.

County Game Warden Charles Daniel trusts to nature and that accounts for the capture of Dugull Bell, living on Anchor street, River Rouge. The other morning Charles went out to round up some duck hunters. Down the road near the marshlands he saw Bell making away with a mud hen. He gave chase. Overtaking Dugull, that worthy hunter did the only thing left for him to do—leaped into the bog. Daniel's 200 pounds didn't permit him to follow. So he sat down on the bank and waited.

Out in the bog, waist deep, stood Dugull. On the bank, lazily smoking, the warden smiled as he saw an army of mosquitoes approaching. He covered his head with the automobile robe. Under cover he could hear the buzzing and imagine the rest. When the buzzing ceased he looked at Dugull. Big welts covered his face, neck and hands. He didn't say a word. Daniel waited. Two hours later Bell said, "I've had enough." He came out of the bog, was arrested and later released on his promise to appear in court.—Detroit News.

Horrible Method of Suicide.

Most people have at some time witnessed revolting sights, but the falling of a suicide from the cathedral tower onto the pavement, 210 feet below, into the midst of the hurrying noonday crowd, upon whose faces and clothes his exploding debris scattered itself, which was seen in Antwerp recently, beggars description. A merchant known as Jacques Simons quietly left his wife and two children at home, as if to go on some business errand, made straight for the cathedral tower, climbed it, and without an instant's hesitation, hurled himself into space. History relates that no one has jumped from this tower since the suicide of its architect, to whom a popular legend of the sixteenth century attributes the same fate, small bits of brass marking the spot on the pavement where he fell.

The Real Burden Bearer.

"The late Senator Pettus," said a Selma man, "came to view with a little alarm, in his later years, the immense and unrestricted immigration to our shores.

"Walking one evening with him, I pointed to a foreigner marching along at the head of his family. The man was tall, erect, robust, a superbly handsome fellow.

"'There,' I said, 'is a fine figure of an immigrant. See how he carries himself.'

"Senator Pettus laughed bitterly.

"'Yes,' he said, 'and see how he lets his wife carry everything else.'"

PUTS THE "GINGER" IN.

The Kind of Food Used by Athletes.

A former college athlete, one of the long distance runners, began to lose his power of endurance. His experience with a change in food is interesting.

"While I was in training on the track athletic team, my daily 'jogs' became a task, until after I was put on Grape-Nuts food for two meals a day. After using the Food for two weeks I felt like a new man. My digestion was perfect, nerves steady and I was full of energy.

"I trained for the mile and the half mile runs (those events which require so much endurance) and then the long daily 'jogs,' which before had been such a task, were clipped off with ease. I won both events.

"The Grape-Nuts food put me in perfect condition and gave me my 'ginger.' Not only was my physical condition made perfect, and my weight increased, but my mind was made clear and vigorous so that I could get out my studies in about half the time formerly required. Now most all of the University men use Grape-Nuts for they have learned its value, but I think my testimony will not be amiss and may perhaps help some one to learn how the best results can be obtained."

There's a reason for the effect of Grape-Nuts food on the human body and brain. The certain elements in wheat and barley are selected with special reference to their power for rebuilding the brain and nerve centres. The product is then carefully and scientifically prepared so as to make it easy of digestion. The physical and mental results are so apparent after two or three week's use as to produce a profound impression. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

TEA FROM THE FLOWERS.

This Product Little Known in the United States.

Tea, not from leaves, but from the flowers alone of the plant, is rarely encountered in commerce. The petals, stamens, etc., are sun dried, and the resulting tea is of a rich, deep brown hue of peculiarly delicate odor, and gives a pale amber colored infusion rather more astringent in taste than that from the average fair grade leaf. The taste for it is an acquired one, and even if this tea could be made commercially possible, it is doubtful if it would ever become popular.

The American tea trade could advantageously take a suggestion from the brick tea of the far east. In our country, the tea dust, some of which is good quality, is not properly utilized. In Europe it is a regular article of trade, and it is advertised and sold as tea dust. In America it is sold to thousands of cheap restaurants, who make from it the mixture of tanic acid, sugar and boiled milk which they sell as "tea." If, as in the orient, this dust was compressed into bricks, good tea could be made from it.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF ECZEMA.

Terrible Itching Prevented Sleep—Hands, Arms and Legs Affected—Cuticura Cured in 6 Days.

"I had eczema nearly fifteen years. The affected parts were my hands, arms and legs. They were the worst in the winter time, and were always itchy, and I could not keep from scratching them. I had to keep both hands bandaged all the time, and at night I would have to scratch through the bandages as the itching was so severe, and at times I would have to tear everything off my hands to scratch the skin. I could not rest or sleep. I had several physicians treat me but they could not give me a permanent cure nor even could they stop the itching. After using the Cuticura Soap, one box of Cuticura Ointment and two bottles of Cuticura Resolvent for about six days the itching had ceased, and now the sores have disappeared, and I never felt better in my life than I do now. Edward Worell, Band 30th U. S. Infantry, Fort Crook, Nebraska."

KNEW VALUE OF AN OATH.

Colored Witness at Least Was Aware of Its Pecuniary Worth.

Clarence S. Darrow, the well known lawyer and essayist, discussing the Haywood trial, in which he played so prominent a part, said the other day:

"Some of the evidence in that trial was so transparently false that it reminds me of a case that came off in Alabama a few years back. One of the witnesses in this case was an extremely ignorant man. As his testimony progressed, his ignorance became so shockingly evident that the judge, looking sternly down at him said:

"'Look here, sir, are you acquainted with the value of an oath?'

"The witness answered anxiously:

"'Jedge, I hope I am. That thar lawyer on yer left hand gimme six dollars to sw'ar agin the other side. Thet's the correck value of an oath, ain't it, jedge?'"

Wear Pajamas on Cars.

"I learned something from the porter on our train this morning," said a hotel guest. "I noticed him pick up the coat to a pair of pajamas while he was making up one of the berths. Whoever had occupied the berth had got off the train, evidently, and left the garment behind. 'Forgot part of his nightie, eh?' says I to the porter. The porter grinned broadly. 'Wasn't any his about it, boss,' he says. 'It war a lady that was in that berth las' night. Yes, sah. Lots of 'em seems to like them to weah on the cahs. I guess they thinks they's better in case of a wreck or sump'n like that.'"

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Tennyson's Melancholy.

After meeting Tennyson for the first time, an Englishman asked the poet's friend, Jonas Spedding, if his temperament was as melancholy as his countenance indicated. "Well," Spedding began, thoughtfully, "I fancy when he is alone Tennyson finds himself in very grave company."

NO PLACE FOR HIM HERE.

Alabama Judge Did Not Think Deceased Would Miss Much.

"Your honor," said a prosecuting attorney in an Alabama backwoods court, "the prisoner at the bar is charged with killing one of the most exemplary citizens of this county. Thomas Jones, your honor, was in every respect a model man. He was a member of the church; he was never known to bet on horses, play poker, drink whisky or use tobacco. He—"

"Hold on a minute," said the judge. "You say he never bet on a horse?"

"That's what I said, your honor."

"Never was known to play a game?"

"Never your honor."

"And he never drank liquor?"

"Never drank a drop, your honor."

"And he didn't chew tobacco?"

"Never took a chew in his life."

"Well, then," said the judge, "I don't see what he wanted to live for. There wasn't anything in life for him, and I don't see why he ain't about as well off dead as alive. Release the prisoner, Mr. Sheriff, and call the next case."

Hindoo Defines Billiards.

John Horgan, the champion pool player, told at a dinner in St. Louis a billiard story.

"Billiards is a tame amusement beside pool," Mr. Horgan began. "Two Hindoos were once discussing the game in Calcutta, and I think that their idea of it was pretty near the right one.

"'What is this white man's game of billiards I hear so much about?' said the first Hindoo.

"'Don't you know?' said the second.

"'No. Tell me.'

"'Well,' said the second Hindoo, 'billiards is a very simple game. Two men armed with long sticks poke at a ball on a green table, and one says, "I am" while the other says "hard lines."'"

TUMORS CONQUERED

Overwhelming Proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Succeeds.

One of the greatest triumphs of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the conquering of woman's dread enemy Tumor,

The growth of a tumor is so insidious that frequently its presence is wholly unsuspected until it is well advanced.

So called "wandering pains" may come from its early stages or the presence of danger may be made manifest by excessive monthly periods accompanied by unusual pain, from the abdomen through the groin and thigh.

If you have mysterious pains, if there are indications of inflammation or displacements, secure a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, right away and begin its use.

The following letters should convince every suffering woman of its virtue, and that it actually does conquer tumors.

Mrs. May Fry, of 836 W. Colfax Ave., South Bend, Ind., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I take great pleasure in writing to thank you for what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I also took the Blood Purifier in alternate doses with the Compound. Your medicine removed a cyst tumor of four years' growth, which three of the best physicians declared I had. They had said that only an operation could help me. I am very thankful that I followed a friend's advice and took your medicine. It has made me a strong and well woman and I shall recommend it as long as I live."

Mrs. E. F. Hayes, of 26 Ruggles St., Boston, Mass., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have been under different doctors' treatment for a long time without relief. They told me I had a fibroid tumor, my abdomen was swollen and I suffered with great pain. I wrote to you for advice, you replied and I followed your directions carefully and today I am a well women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound expelled the tumor and strengthened my whole system."

Mrs. Perry Byers, of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I was told by my physician that I had a fibroid tumor and that I would have to be operated upon, I wrote to you for advice, which I followed carefully and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am not only cured of the tumor but other female troubles and can do all my own work after eigh years of suffering."

Mrs. S. J. Barber, of Scott, N. Y. writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Sometime ago I wrote you for advice about a tumor which the doctors thought would have to be removed. Instead I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and to-day am a well woman."

Mrs. M. M. Funk, Vandergrift, Pa., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I had a tumor and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound removed it for me after two doctors had given me up. I was sick four years before I began to take the Compound. I now recommend Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound far and near."

Such testimony as above is convincing evidence that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound stands without a peer as a remedy for Tumor Growths as well as other distressing ills of women, and such symptoms as Bearing-down Sensations, Displacements, Irregularities and Backache, etc. Women should remember that it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is curing so many women Don't forget to insist upon it when some druggist asks you to accept something else which he calls "just as good."

Mrs. Pinkham's Invitation to Women.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law, Lydia E. Pinkham in advising. Thus she is especially well qualified to guide sick women back to health.

CAMERON.

The Canoe Run Mining Co., are preparing to reopen and operate the Brady mines again.

The people of Canoe Run are very much pleased with the capable way Mr. Peterson has organized and is conducting the new school. Mr. Peterson's wide range of experience, both as principal of schools and teacher in both graded and ungraded work, certainly make him a very able and proficient teacher.

Chas. Burkland and wife were called to Howard's Sunday on account of the illness of Mr. Burkland's brothers child.

Jos. Robinson left Sunday for Brookville, where he has a position. Mr. R. expects to move his family there in the near future.

Hunting season for birds and other small game has again opened and a number of our sportsmen went out to try their luck, but at this writing we have not received any reports.

The Vitrified Brick Co., is now working full time to keep up with their orders but are still unable to cope with the situation. The demand for their brick is rapidly increasing, which goes to show the superior quality they produce.

Telegraphers G. L. Page and E. D. Krape of Cameron tower, certainly deserve the names of hustlers. Mr. Page taking a cource in the Scranton School of mechanical engineering and Mr. Krape is taking a course in electrical engineering in the same school. When one considers that these gentlemen put in twelve hours out of every twenty-four, handling the heavy traffic on single and double track, besides each of them have raised enough vegetables on their respective properties to carry them through the winter the name "hustler" applies to them in the fullest sense of the word. We understand that they average 98 per cent. in their studies and having their courses nearly completed. Electrician Chas. Burkland is also taking a course in electric light and railway and is doing nicely. The PRESS congratulates these young men and predicts a prosperous future for them all.

Shippen township's hustling tax collector attended to business at Canoe Run on Monday.

A birthday party will be given Friday evening in honor of Gertrude Hill, our popular Huntley school teacher.

Henry Hill, of Grove Hill, who had occasion to rise rather early Monday morning, heard a noise in the woods back of the house that resembled some one pounding. He crept up quietly in the direction of the sounds and was astonished to see five large buck deer knocking their horns off against the trees. Henry says that he believes that these animals are taking advantage of the new game law and are disposing of their horns to deceive the hunters and incidently save their own lives.

The PRESS correspondent wishes to thank G. W. Starr for the nice mess of winter radishes which he sent down. We happened to have Buffalo ham for dinner that day and the combination made us forget our troubles for the time being. Call again, George.

HAPPY WOMEN.

Plenty of Them in Pennsylvania, and Good Reason for it.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
She finds relief and cure?

No reason why any Pennsylvania reader should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Sallie K. Dittling, of 1014 Hemlock St., Harrisburg, Pa., says: "My mother was greatly benefited by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. She suffered for years with kidney complaint and there was an almost constant aching across the small of her back and pain through her body. Frequent attacks of dizziness added to her trouble and the secretions from the kidneys were in a very bad condition. She was treated by a physician but was unable to get relief. Nothing did her any good until we procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for her. Their good effects were noticeable from the start, and after finishing one box there was a decided improvement in every way. She can now rest well and has a much better appetite. We can certainly speak well of Doan's Kidney Pills."

McKINLEY'S SISTER UNVEILS MEMORIAL.

Throngs in Canton See Grand Mausoleum Dedicated and Listen to Eulogy by President Who Succeeded Martyr.

CANTON, O., Sept. 30.—More than 80,000 persons to-day heard President Roosevelt eulogize William McKinley, his predecesor and friend; heard James Whitcomb Riley, the Indiana poet, immortalize him in a palm; saw Miss Helen McKinley, only sister of the late President, release the American flag that unveiled the $600,000 mausoleum that will perpetuate the memory of the martyr, whose life was the trophy of an assassin's bullet.

These were the features of the dedication of the McKinley memorial here on monument Hill, preceeded by a parade of soldiery, veterans of the Civil and Spanish-American Wars, secret secieties and citizens.

President Roosevelt was the leading figure in the dedication of a memorial built with the money of more than one million American—grown persons and school children—who loved and admired the man, who, during his brief control of the reins of State, made the nation more nearly one than it had been since the day before the black cloud—the negro—divided it in twain.

Into a city thronged with loyal United Staters, representing every State in the Union, and with armed soldiery guarding the streets, the President came. He was closely guarded by sharp-eyed secret service men and surrounded by members of the cabinet. These latter included Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou, Secretary of Argiculture Wilson, Secretary of the Interior Garfield, himself the son of a martyr President, and Surgeon General Rixey, of the United States Navy, Vice President Fairbanks, with numerous Congressmen, Senators and other distinguished men, already was here.

PRESIDENT'S ARRIVAL.

The day began with the President's arrival. A triumphal carriage tour through thronged streets, guarded by soldiers wound up at the Central High School where thousands of school children, grouped to represent an American flag, sang "America."

Next, the parade.

Before the reviewing, stand, where President Roosevelt and other distinguished men stood, the military and civic pageant, marshaled by Senator Charles Dick, passed, the long, regular lines taking one hour and a half to go by.

Georgia and Her Hypocracy.

Undoubtedly one of the most miserable shams in the history of State legislation has recently been accomplished by Georgia.

Great stress has been laid upon the fact and it is clothed with importance, since it tends to show the emotional signs of the times, that Georgia has jumped from local option to Prohibition. Now by law liquor cannot be made, or sold or given away, and even the drug stores are prohibited from supplying to the sick or the dying any stimulant with the exception of pure alcohol. If a physician finds that champagne, now so frequently used in the sick room and in hospitals, or brandy is necessary the law demands that the patient shall die rather than the liquor prescription shall be filled at the drug store.

The crafty politicans who are riding into power and graft on the top wave of this prohibition sentiment in the South in their zeal even struck at the religion of our Lord and Saviour, since the law forbids the administration of wine in the churches in connection with the holy sacrament.

But how came Georgia to enact such a sweeping interdict? There is always one side to a story and this one has two. To pass prohibition it had to be based on race prejudice. Liquor was too good for the "nigger" and his foster brother, the "poor white trash." Stop it, and "nigger" crime against womanhood will cease was the argument, and it caught the minds of emotional and thoughtless men and women.

But Prohibition could not be passed in Georgia either on moral or temperance grounds which has been claimed. It was only passed upon the promise to rob the "nigger" of his right to vote. It passed one day by a vote of ten to one, and mark you the very next day the legislature passed an act disfranchising the negro. Here was a questionable political deal and a bargain that was manipulated by the politicians both within and without the church.

Now mark again the subsequent action of this same Georgia legislature. Within a week following its hysterical adoption of prohibition by a vote entirely unanimous it passed a club act taxing every social club which dispenses liquors to its members three hundred dollars.

And the politicians now smile while the deceived clergymen and his church member who were used in the drama to rob the negro of his vote are measuring the breadth and depth of their bunco. But the hotels do not smile, nor does the farmer who all his life has been making his own peach brandy which he drinks with the addition of a drop of honey.

Upon the first of January, 1908, the bar of every hotel must be closed—even the rooms as to liquors, the drug stores save us to alcohol.

But around the corner, or at the next cross-road will be the club. Home life next year will not be known to Georgia, in so far as the men are concerned, and it will soon reach the club life of the women.

How easy to form a club: Rent a room, charge each member fifty cents for his key. He takes his friends, pays for the drinks and afterwards divides the expense. This is not gentlemanly, but is the pace set by hypocrisy.

Every "wet" member of the legislature voted for the $300.00 club tax bill; every "dry" member did likewise. Why? Because they thought the negroes could not form clubs and pay a tax of $300.00. But we shall see!

In Georgia since 1865 they have advanced more than the white race, hence the jealousy, the persecution, a State's hypocracy.

"Puck" recently published a fine cartoon on its front page. It was the fat man of Georgia, raised on his liquor drinking to the lean man from Maine. Georgia was imbibing from a bottle marked "Lemon Phosphate,"—the man from Maine, tall, lean and lank, was imbibing from a bottle marked "Cold Tea." And thus hypocrisy through the laws assailing personal liberty, extends from Main to Georgia.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend
